

Fugro Integrates Geotechnical Services in North America

Fugro announces the integration of its North American operations serving clients with geotechnical needs for onshore and nearshore projects. As Fugro Consultants, Inc., the group operates from 30 offices located along all three coasts and in major metropolitan areas. The resources of Fugro West, Fugro Atlantic, Fugro William Lettis & Associates, Risk Engineering, and LoadTest USA will be part of Fugro Consultants serving clients throughout the Americas and abroad.

With this change, the company streamlines client access to technical and project management services for complex assignments, including international projects of U.S. based firms. While broadening the base of traditional geotechnical services, the integration taps major markets and promotes the advancement of geo-consulting specialties including:

- Geologic Hazard and Risk Assessments
- Earthquake Engineering
- Analysis of Complex Soil Properties
- Site Characterization
- Deep Foundation Testing
- Nearshore Exploration and Engineering

Senior leadership for Fugro Consultants, Inc. will be provided by Joseph M. Cibor, President; Timothy N. Dunne; William R. Lettis; and John A. Wooley. Our regional and local offices will continue to operate with their current staff and management, but with the added resources of the larger organization.

Successfully carrying out projects for our current clients remains our primary focus!
